2 次の英文を読み、あとの問いに答えなさい。

In the 18th century, Edo was one of ①the large cities in the world. ②lived / one / people / over / there / million. Of course, all those people produced a lot of waste. What did they do with it?

The people of the Edo Period tried to use things ③as long as they can. For example, when something broke, they tried to *fix it first *instead of *replacing it. ④items / men / who / broken / could / there were / a lot of / fix. Also, used or broken items were collected and recycled. For example, the *straw from old *brooms ⑤was used to making ropes or *scrub brushes.

People did not throw away things easily. ⑥candles / wax / some people / dropped / collected / from and made it into new candles.

The people of Edo did not think about the earth, but they had “mottainai” thinking. We can learn from them because their lifestyle was very eco-friendly.

(注)

*fix ～を修理する *instead of ～ではなく *replace ～を取り替える
*straw わら *broom ほうき *scrub brush たわし

Kevin: I see. From Chart 1 and Chart 2, we can say that many students (① 10 語以上 15 語以内). This is a problem. We have to do something about this problem.

Shota: What can we do?

Kevin: Well, we can ask our teacher to put new books in the library.

Shota: That's a good idea!

Kevin: By the way, how did you answer these questions?

Shota: My answer to Q1 was “No”. I answered “(②)” to Q2, because (③ 10 語以上 15 語以内).

5 次の英文を読み、あとの問いに答えなさい。

Daughter: Oh, no! Oh, no! Dad, I'm in trouble! I'm late! Really late!
Father: (*Sigh) You are late every day ... You should learn from your mistakes.
Daughter: I know ... But why didn't you wake me up?
Father: You *graduated from college two years ago. You need to start acting like an adult.
Daughter: *Humph! I'm going to take the car!
Father: No, you can't. I need it this afternoon.
Daughter: Then, you can drive me to work!
Father: I'm busy.
Daughter: No, you're not. You *retired this year, so you have free time. You need to help your daughter.
Father: I have things to do.
Daughter: Really? Can you just help me today? Thanks! I'll wait in the car!

My daughter started working at a television company last year. She studied and got a *license to become a *weather forecaster. Now she announces the weather forecast on the news.

Daughter: Let's go, Dad!
Father: I think it's better if you take the train. The roads might be crowded. How about I drive you to the station?
Daughter: The weather forecast for today is heavy rain.
Father: So?
Daughter: So the trains will be crowded and late, too. The car will be faster.
Father: Are you sure it's going to rain? It's really sunny right now. *Huh? Was that *thunder?
Daughter: *See?
Father: You're right. I see a black cloud coming closer ... And it's starting to rain!
Daughter: I told you so. I know the weather.
Father: You are good.
Daughter: ① These days, we are 90 percent sure what the weather will be like for the next seven days.
Father: Wow. Technology must be really good.

Daughter: It's not just technology, Dad. We have a lot of data.
 Father: A lot of data?
 Daughter: We look at data from the past to make our weather forecast. If we have more data, our forecast will be better.
 Father: I think I understand. When I was small, we used to forecast the weather with our geta, our sandals.
 Daughter: With sandals? How?
 Father: You don't know? Well, first, you find a big place and *stand with your legs apart.
 Daughter: And?
 Father: You kick one sandal up in the air.
 Daughter: Kick it off?
 Father: Yes. ②If the sandal comes down face up, it's going to be sunny the next day. If it's upside down, it's going to be rainy, and if it lands on the side, cloudy.
 Daughter: What?
 Father: Oh, and if the sandal stands up, it's going to snow!
 Daughter: (Sigh) How can you tell the weather like that?
 Father: Well, ③that was the way it was. By the way, are you going to be all right?
 Daughter: What are you talking about now?
 Father: We aren't moving. There must be more cars because it started to rain.
 Daughter: Oh, no! I'm not all right. I'm going to get off here and take a train.
 Father: I told you!

④She may know a lot about the weather, but she still needs to learn a lot about life.
